Cabin Creek Timber Frames Launches New Website

Franklin, NC - November, 2010: Leading timber frame company Cabin Creek Timber Frames is proud to announce they've released a new website spotlighting their more than 15 years of excellence in custom timber framing throughout the United States.

The dramatically redesigned site, www.cabincreektimberframes.com, is user-friendly and highlights Cabin Creek's custom homes including architectural designs, floor plans, unique additions and interior and exterior renovation projects. The site's homepage welcomes visitors with bold new colors, a clean uncluttered design, and an upgraded photo gallery with featured content and articles to inspire lifelong learning about green building and awareness.

With the new website, visitors can browse Cabin Creek's photo gallery to view custom frames hand built by the team at Cabin Creek Timber Frames. "Since building our first timber frame as a company 15 years ago, we've been dedicated to providing top quality service and craftsmanship to our clients," says Dr. Joe Bell, owner of Cabin Creek Timber Frames, along with his wife, Miss Jo Bell. "The new website allows us to showcase examples of our fine craftsmanship and quality materials with a commitment to exceeding customers' expectations in building their dream homes."

Dr. Joe Bell adds, "Many customers have said building with us was an unbeatable experience and with the new website, we want to provide that same experience to more consumers. We hope that our customers will enjoy our new site and find it easy to use."

The Cabin Creek Timber Frames facility is located in Franklin, NC and offers consumers tours of their 9,250 square feet beamery, where frames are hand cut and preassembled for exact fit before being shipped to clients' home-sites.
